

ABSTRACT

The present invention is related to a device, kit and method for pulsing a biological sample
5 with a pulsing agent and subsequently stabilizing the biological sample so pulsed. The invention has application in the fields of medical diagnostics, particularly relating to immunity.